

Stories from Small Towns

Stories from Small Towns is a project of the National Physical Activity Society. The objective of the project is to demonstrate that structural changes to make walking easier can be carried out in America's thousands of small towns and not just its big cities. The project focuses on advice from towns that have made some changes, with the aim of inspiring town leaders across the country to see such infrastructure investments as possible and worthy.

Thank you to:

Aaron Lincoln
Allie Corcoran
Angela Drent
Beret Halverson
Brian Coyle

Cristina Shaul
Deborah John
Ian Lockwood
James Kisse
Kurk Wiedel

Marc Maxwell
Mayor Jack Tibbs
Mayor Raymond Gravelle
Neil Pade
Town of Davidson, NC

The Stories from Small Towns project is supported by the U.S. Centers for Disease Control & Prevention, Prime Contract 200-2012-F-53729 (#NPAS-03-4568).

Any errors in this report are solely the responsibility of the National Physical Activity Society. Interviews conducted November 2015 to September 2016. Population estimates 2013 U.S. Census Bureau. Maps from Google. Photos used with permissions.

The mission of the National Physical Activity Society is to create safe and accessible communities, where people of all ages and abilities are physically active, by taking deliberate and informed actions across all sectors of society.

For more information, visit the National Physical Activity Society's web site at <http://physicalactivitysociety.org/>

Published September 27, 2016. Text copyright ©2016 National Physical Activity Society, 1100 Peachtree Street Suite 200, Atlanta GA 30309. 404-692-5396.